the story

Established in 1957, Crossing Rivers Health (CRH) is a 25-bed Critical Access Hospital committed to providing more than 100 services of health and wellness needs to the communities of Southwest Wisconsin and Northeast Iowa, under the roof of a state-of-the-art Medical Center and two primary care clinics. In their mission to provide top-notch healthcare services, Crossing Rivers Health embarked on a project to expand their facilities.

the project

This expansion included the construction of a new clinic area, which required durable and high-quality commercial building products. To accomplish this, they enlisted the expertise of Inpro, who not only provided the necessary estimating takeoff and placement plans but also assisted in the design process before installation.

the results

Thanks to the collaboration with Inpro's durable commercial building products, CRH successfully implemented ADA-compliant signs providing accessibility in their new facility, and durable artwork to bring comfort to their patients. The artwork features photos of real patient's babies from the clinic, and calming nature photos, to create a warm atmosphere. The new clinic area, outfitted with top-quality materials, now ensures that CRH can continue to provide a full spectrum of healthcare services helping families in the region live well.
