the story

Serving patients throughout Wisconsin and Upper Michigan, a non-profit healthcare network was looking to establish their new corporate headquarters in Wausau inside a former insurance company office building. To ensure an appropriate level of privacy and UV protection, the healthcare network building needed an experienced manufacturer and products to meet the challenging elements of the building's renovation.

Inpro® was able to provide commercial window treatments that met the unique needs of the building's tall, narrow windows using a combination of motorized and manual options. The healthcare network's office now has modern and functional window treatments for their employees that help serve communities throughout the area providing natural light and a mentally-healthier work environment.
